DEDICATION

TO

MYRON S. AISENBERG, D.D.S., F.A.C.D.

Ever since Dr. Aisenberg received his dental degree from the Dental School of the University of Maryland, he has been associated with the faculty of this institution. Having graduated with honors in 1922, he taught histology, pathology and bacteriology, and a few years later established the Department of Oral Pathology. Professor of the latter course, Dr. Aisenberg still conducts classes in histology, pathology and embryology. Until a few years ago he also maintained a part-time practice, but relinquished it to devote his entire attention to teaching and research work.

Dr. Aisenberg's interest in research dates back to his School days. Besides having had published various original papers in the leading dental journals, he has been Secretary, Vice-Chairman, and Chairman of the Research Section of the American Dental Association and Council Representative of the International Association for Dental Research.

In addition to these important positions, Dr. Aisenberg is currently serving as President of the Maryland State Dental Association. Other organizations of which he is a member are Omicron Kappa Upsilon, Sigma Xi, Gorgas Odontological Society, and Alpha Omega Fraternity (Past Supreme Chancellor).

It is with admiration and respect for him as a friend, teacher, organizer, and research worker in dentistry that we dedicate this volume to Dr. Aisenberg.

President of the University

HERBERT R. O'CONOR

Governor of Maryland

observer on visit here, yesterday.

DR. BEN ROBINSON WILL TOUR MEXICO

Dean Of U. Of M. Dental School Leaves Saturday For Good-Will Trip

Dr. J. Ben Robinson, dean of the University of Maryland School of Dental Surgery and president of the American Dental Association, will leave here Saturday for a scientific and good-will tour of Mexico.

He is making the trip, on which he will be accompanied by Dr. Daniel F. Lynch, of Washington, at the request of the State Department as part of the nation's good-neighbor policy. He will be away several weeks.

A recognized authority on dental history, he will attend and participate in the program of the Fourth Medico-Dental Convention in Mexico City from March 1 to 6. Before and after that meeting, he will visit leading cities of Mexico and confer with citizens and meet with groups of dentists. He will deliver a number of lectures on scientific subjects and on the history of dentistry.

Plan Of Dental Education

Throughout the tour, his office stated last night, he will stress the United States plan of dental education in the interest of better health in Latin America.

Doctor Robinson, in addition to his duties at the university, has been a member of the dental advisory committee of selective service since 1941.

Although this will be his first trip to Mexico, he was elected an honorary member of the Society of Surgeons of Guadalajara, Mexico, some years ago.

Born In West Virginia

Doctor Robinson was born in Clarksburg, W. Va., April 16, 1883. After receiving his early education in the public schools there, he taught grade schools from 1902 to 1905 when he enrolled in Marshall College, Huntington, W. Va., where he graduated in 1908.

After teaching mathematics and science in the New Martinsville (W. Va.) High School from 1909 to 1911 and attending West Virginia University during summer vacations, he entered the University of Maryland dental school and graduated in 1914. He was awarded the university gold medal for highest scholarship.

From 1914 to 1917, he was demonstrator of operative dentistry at the university and was appointed professor of clinical dentistry in 1917 and professor of operative dentistry in 1919.

President Of State Body

Doctor Robinson was elected president of the Maryland State Dental Association in 1921, and in 1923 and 1924 he was a member of the Maryland State Board of Dental Examiners. In the former year, he was made a fellow of the American College of Dentists.

He became dean of the university's School of Dentistry in 1924.

Among the positions of honor he has held in addition to the presidency of the American Dental Association, are the presidencies of the American College of Dentists, 1935, and of the American Association of Dental Schools, 1933; chairmanship of the committee on legislation of the American Dental Association, 1935.

Editor Of Two Journals

He was founder and first editor of the Bulletin of the Maryland State Dental Association and associate editor of the Journal of the American College of Dentists.

He holds memberships in the Maryland Academy of Sciences, the American Dental Association, the International Association for Dental Research, the American Association for the Advancement of Science and numerous other groups.

CHANGES NEAR, DENTISTS TOLD

Dr. Ben Robinson, President Of Association, Favors Socialized Plan

He Urges Profession To Guide Action On Program Now Taking Shape

Dr. J. Ben Robinson, president of the American Dental Association, last night indorsed the idea of a socialized health program and urged the dental profession to act quickly to assure the adoption of a plan that would be in the best interests of professional standards as well as public welfare.

Dr. Robinson, speaking before members of the Maryland State Dental Association at the Hotel Belvedere, said: "There is a crying need for some measures to improve the health of the people of the United States. I don't believe that any one of us would contest the idea that the people must have adequate health service. The only issue for debate is how."

Three Essentials Listed

He recommended that these three points be considered, from the standpoint of the dental profession, in the formation of any such program:

1. The dental profession must be placed in command of forces assigned to direct the dental phase of the program. (Dentistry, he said, is a natural division of medicine.)

2. Standards in dental education must not suffer.

3. Standards of practice must not be relaxed to the point where functions are subdivided and relegated into an assembly line of health service.

Doctor Robinson cited a recent newspaper report that a plan for providing aid to the medically indigent was under consideration. He said that his purpose was to awaken members of the dental profession to the need for thought and action on the subject.

Diffidence Deplored

Striking at the diffidence to the idea expressed by some practitioners, he declared that no man can be secure in the thought that he is qualified to operate independently and can continue to do so. Licenses are issued for public protection, he said, and if the needs of the people are not met under present arrangements, changes must necessarily be made.

FACULTY-III

George Coffman Blevins, D.D.S.
Instructor in Anatomy and Clinical Operative Dentistry

Dr. Blevins was born in Baltimore on June 10, 1916, at the old University Hospital, where he now teaches Anatomy. He attended Centerville High School in Maryland, where he played baseball and soccer. At Duke University he belonged to Delta Tau Delta fraternity and to the honorary fraternity, Phi Eta Sigma.

He entered the Dental School in 1935, and graduated in 1939, the winner of the University Gold Medal for Scholarship. He interned at Bellevue Hospital and received a fellowship at the Mayo Clinic in Rochester, Minnesota.

Dr. Blevins has been associated with the Department of Anatomy and Diagnosis since October, 1941. Dr. Blevins enjoys tennis, swimming, reading, photography, and music in his leisure hours.

He is a member of the American Dental Association, the Gorgas Odontological Society, Omicron Kappa Upsilon, and Psi Omega.

Benjamin Anthony Dabrowski, A.B., D.D.S.
Instructor in Clinical Oral Roentgenology

Dr. Dabrowski is a native of Maryland, born in Baltimore on January 18, 1910. Upon completing his high school education at Baltimore City College, he entered the Johns Hopkins University, from which he received his Bachelor of Arts degree in 1932. After a short career in business, he matriculated at the Baltimore College of Dental Surgery, from which he was graduated in 1940. Immediately upon graduation, Dr. Dabrowski accepted the position of Fellow in the Department of Clinical Oral Radiology. One year later he became an instructor, a position which he has maintained to the present date.

Dr. Dabrowski is a member of Psi Omega, Omicron Kappa Upsilon, and an honorary member of the Gorgas Odontological Society.

Meyer Eggnatz, D.D.S., F.A.C.D.
Director of Orthodontic Clinic

Dr. Eggnatz, born in Baltimore on February 7, 1907, attended elementary school and high school in this city. He entered the Baltimore College of Dental Surgery in 1924 and graduated in 1928 with the reputation of being the fastest man in his class. Dr. Eggnatz has been associated with the School in the Orthodontia Department since his graduation and is now the director of the Orthodontic Clinic. He has served as secretary of the Baltimore City Dental Society and of the Maryland State Dental Association and has been National President of Alpha Omega Fraternity. Dr. Eggnatz is also a member of Omicron Kappa Upsilon and Gorgas Odontological Society. His hobbies are golf and photography.

Thomas C. Grubb, AB., Ph.D.
Associate Professor of Bacteriology

Dr. Grubb was born on November 17, 1907, in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania. He attended Hamilton College and the University of Chicago, and became a member of Phi Beta Kappa and Sigma Xi. His professional activities include membership in the American Society of Bacteriologists and associate membership in the American Medical Association. Formerly Dr. Grubb was associated with the University of Maryland School of Pharmacy, the Maryland State Health Department, the Illinois State Health Department and the Borden Milk Products Company. His work has included research on focal infection due to staphylococci, morphology of the diptheria bacillus, testing of antiseptics, poliomyelitis, tuleremia, and undulant fever.

Verda Elizabeth James, A.B., D.D.S.

Instructor in Embryology and Histology

Dr. James was born in Gumboro, Delaware, on January 22, 1914. She attended Milford High School and later received her Bachelor of Arts degree from Randolph-Macon Woman's College, from which she graduated in 1935. She then matriculated at the B.C.D.S., graduating in 1939. She received a Carnegie Research Fellowship, taught at the Dental School of the University of Louisville, and worked with the Maryland Department of Health before she returned to her alma mater in 1942 as an instructor.

Dr. James was secretary of the Gorgas Odontological Society in 1938 and is an honorary member of Psi Omega.

Vernon Delbert Kaufman, D.D.S.

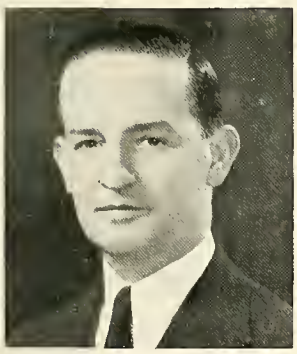
Associate Professor of Oral Surgery

Dr. Kaufman was born on February 7, 1912, in Baltimore County. He attended Catonsville High School, where he participated in track, soccer and basketball. He attended the University of Maryland at College Park and in Baltimore.

He graduated from the Dental School, University of Maryland, in 1936. He interned at the University Hospital for one year, and was a Fellow in the Department of Oral Surgery for two years. He was Instructor of Oral Surgery until March, 1942, when he became Associate Professor of Oral Surgery and Acting Head of the Department of Oral Surgery. At present he is also Acting Chief of the Dental Staff of the University Hospital.

Dr. Kaufman is a member of the American Dental Association, Gorgas Odontological Society, and Omicron Kappa Upsilon.

In his leisure time he likes to make recordings and collect semi-classical records. He also swims and plays golf and softball.



George McLean, M.D., F.A.C.P.

Assistant Professor of Physical Diagnosis and Principles of Medicine

Dr. McLean was born in Baltimore, Maryland, on April 4, 1891. He attended the Baltimore City College, Deichmann's College Preparatory School, and Pennsylvania State College. He received his medical degree from the University of Maryland in 1916. Included in Who's Who, Dr. McLean is a Fellow of the American College of Physicians, a past-president of the Middle Atlantic Medical Directors Club, and a member of the American Medical Association, the American Public Health Association, the Southern Medical Society, the Baltimore City Medical Society, the Medical and Chirurgical Faculty of Maryland, and the Association of Life Insurance Medical Directors. He is Chief of Medical Service at the South Baltimore General Hospital and belongs to the Staffs of Mercy, University, Union Memorial, Women's, Maryland General, and St. Agnes Hospitals.

Besides teaching at the B.C.D.S., he is a lecturer at the Mercy Hospital and the South Baltimore General Hospital Schools of Nursing, and is Associate Professor of Medicine at the Medical School of the University of Maryland.

Dr. McLean belongs to Phi Chi, the Kiwanis Club, the Baltimore Country Club, and the Masons. His hobbies are golf and photography.

C. Paul Miller, D.D.S.

Associate Professor of Clinical Dental Prosthesis

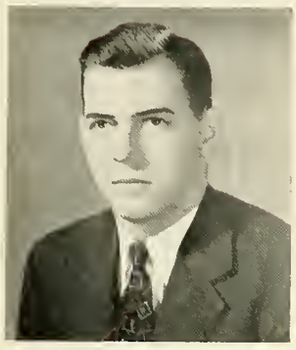
Dr. Miller was born June 7, 1899, in Tunnelton, West Virginia. He attended West Virginia Wesleyan College, where he received his predental training; he graduated from the Baltimore College of Dental Surgery in 1928. He joined the faculty of the B.C.D.S. as an instructor in the year of his graduation. He is a member of the Gorgas Odontological Society, Psi Omega, Omicron Kappa Upsilon, and the American Dental Association. One of his outside interests is promoting and playing softball.

James E. Pyott, Phar. G., D.D.S., F.A.C.D.

Instructor in Dental Technics

Dr. Pyott was born in Hartford, Connecticut, on December 25, 1897, and attended elementary school and high school there. He attended Hillyer College for two years, receiving the degree of Phar. G., and served in the Navy from 1917 to 1919 as a chief pharmacist's mate. Dr. Pyott spent two years at Mt. Vernon College in Baltimore and then entered the Baltimore College of Dental Surgery, from which he graduated in 1926. He is the originator of a radium applicator used in the treatment of oral tumors. Dr. Pyott's hobbies are hunting and fishing, and his performance as St. Nicholas is a source of great merriment at the School each December.

He is a member of Psi Omega and Gorgas Odontological Society.



Kenneth V. Randolph, D.D.S.

Assistant Professor of Clinical Operative Dentistry

Dr. Kenneth V. Randolph was born in Masontown, West Virginia, on April 14, 1915. He attended elementary school and high school in Lost Creek. After attending the University of West Virginia for two years, he entered the Baltimore College of Dental Surgery in 1935 and graduated in 1939. Dr. Randolph was Master of Xi Psi Phi and was named the most popular student of his class. He has been an instructor in the Operative Department since his graduation. He is a member of Gorgas Odontological Society and Omicron Kappa Upsilon.

Nathan B. Scherr, D.D.S.

Instructor in Clinical Pedodontics

Nathan B. Scherr was born in Baltimore on November 25, 1899. He received his high school education at the Baltimore City College and his professional training at the University of Maryland, from which he was graduated in 1922. Dr. Scherr is a member of the Baltimore City Dental Society, the Maryland State Dental Association, the American Dental Association, Alpha Omega Alumni, and Omicron Kappa Upsilon. Sports are his hobby.

Daniel E. Shehan, D.D.S., F.A.C.D.

Instructor in Orthodontics

Dr. Shehan was born in Baltimore on June 3, 1900. He attended elementary school and high school in this city. After four years at Calvert Hall College, he entered the Dental School of the University of Maryland, from which he graduated in 1922. He has been associated with the School since then, first in the Operative Clinic and later in the Orthodontic Department. Dr. Shehan has served as president and treasurer of the Baltimore City Dental Society and is a member of Psi Omega, Gorgas Odontological Society, Phi Sigma Kappa, and Omicron Kappa Upsilon. He spends his spare time playing golf and cultivating his excellent Victory garden.

Dorsey Robert Tipton, D.D.S.

Assistant Professor of Anesthetics and Oral Surgery

Dr. Tipton was born in New Orleans, Louisiana, on December 28, 1916. He received his early education in Baltimore, and entered the Dental School in 1935. Upon graduation, he served an interneship at the University of Maryland Hospital, later joining the faculty of the Dental School. He is a member of the Gorgas Odontological Society, the American Dental Association, and the Psi Omega fraternity. In his spare moments, Dr. Tipton turns to photography for relaxation. He is also a table tennis enthusiast.

Lee Edward Warner, D.D.S.

Assistant Professor of Clinical Dental Prosthesis

Dr. Warner was born in Ansonia, Connecticut, on September 23, 1901. He attended preparatory school at St. Johns College in Erie, Pennsylvania. After a year at the dental school of the University of Pennsylvania, he worked for several years as a dental technician in New York, New Jersey, and Connecticut. He then returned to dental school at the University of Maryland, working in a dental laboratory during his summer vacations. He graduated cum laude in 1931.

He is a member of the American Dental Association, Omicron Kappa Upsilon, and is an honorary member of the Gorgas Odontological Society.

Golf and fishing are his hobbies.

Benjamin Sargent Wells, D.D.S.

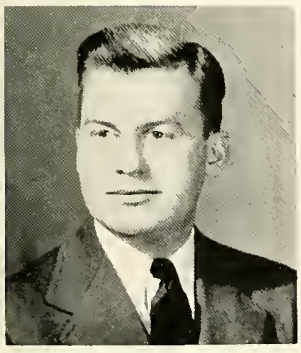
After receiving his predental training at St. Johns College in Annapolis, he entered the Dental School of the University of Maryland, graduating in 1914. He began his teaching career in 1915 as Superintendent of the Prosthetic Clinic. He was the School's first Instructor in X-ray and in Biology. Dr. Wells is a founding member and the first treasurer of the Gorgas Odontological Society. He is also a member of Omicron Kappa Upsilon and the American Dental Association, and is a Past President of the Baltimore City Dental Society and Past President and Past Treasurer of the National Alumni Association. His hobbies are woodwork and dental laboratory work.



John Hoffman Wooden, Jr., D.D.S.

Instructor in Clinical Operative Dentistry

Dr. Wooden was born in Baltimore on January 25, 1916. He attended the Baltimore public schools, and after graduating from the Baltimore Polytechnic Institute he enrolled for his predental training at the University of Maryland in 1934. He graduated from the B.C.D.S. in 1939, having been treasurer of his class in his freshman and sophomore years and president in his junior year. He is a member of Psi Omega, Gorgas Odontological Society, Omicron Kappa Upsilon, and the American Dental Association. His hobbies are golf and amateur movie photography.

ANESTHESIA:

Three Eloquent Opinions

William Henry Atkinson, prolific writer, successful teacher, brilliant orator, and great leader, at 1872 meeting of the American Dental Association: I cannot give my vote to those resolutions [anent "Wells National Testimonial Fund"] for reasons other than humanitarian. I think anesthesia is of the devil, and I cannot give my sanction to any Satanic influence which deprives a man of the capacity to recognize law. I wish there were no such thing as anesthesia. I do not think that men should be prevented from passing through what God intended them to endure. For these reasons I cannot support the resolution, though I am always ready to relieve a suffering family. My affections are with them, but not my higher nature. [The resolutions were adopted.]

J. Foster Flagg, father of "The New Departure": Anesthesia is death! Because it does not prove fatal every time, do not let us think that it is not harmful. It sows disease; it produces a condition favorable to such diseases as chorea and other nervous affections, which will unfit for business, society, or any of the active duties of life. The asylums are full of cases of these diseases. Men are innocently (rather than ignorantly) swung down to the jaws of death and back again. We have to do it, but it is little less than death. The patient is never the same after.

James Truman, at the celebration, sponsored by the American Dental Association, of the fiftieth anniversary of the discovery of modern anesthesia, held in Philadelphia, December 11, 1894: When we contemplate the past history of the world, the horrors of the battle-fields, the terrors of the hospitals, and the accidents of life, the mind falters in its attempt to grasp the aggregate of human misery. Who can translate this into words suitable for modern comprehension? This wail of the ages was voiced in the Garden of Gethsemane, when the Great Master of human thought, in anticipation of the cruel agonies of the cross, lifted up his voice and prayed, "Father, let this cup pass from me!" Eighteen centuries passed into oblivion with no response; but near high noon of the nineteenth, in the new world of Columbus, in a humble home in Hartford, there arose a "still small voice" sounding above this wilderness of suffering. It was wafted over the deep waters, echoed and re-echoed in joyous acclaim throughout the world: "Lo, the cry of agony from the surgeon's knife is silenced forever."

FRESHMEN

RECRUITS IN REVIEW

In the blustery month of March, Baltimore opened its arms to 77 embryonic dentists. Numerous exam worries and uncertainty caused by rumors of the army "taking over" brought out the various eccentricities of our fellow students. To Demyan we entrusted our sundry cares; in Krumbeck, Jurkiewicz's protégé, we found a definite talent for witty sayings; and from Joe "Romeo" Cappuccio we learned the best methods of wooing the fair sex.

Time dragged by as we rotated our cuspids and spent sleepless nights over abdominal relations. July 2 finally arrived: for the Army boys it was camp; for the Navy, vacation! Reports still drift in from Mackler of the mysterious aroma of the mess hall kitchen; while McLean assures us that he, under no circumstances, bought the top-kick chocolate milkshakes in order to escape K.P. Finally, Tony "Are you a student?" Damiani's prayers were answered; and we returned with our helmets, privates 7th grade. At this time, the Navy boys were still receiving clothesbrushes as a substitute for wearing apparel.

We have had our humorous incidents, but we are fully aware of the seriousness of our purpose in school; so it's study, work, and a salute to the Class of '45!

SAINT APOLLONIA

There is a considerable amount of fearsome wonder to be derived from a belief in unseen supernatural powers of great might and mystery. Consequently it is not difficult to understand why quack tooth-drawers of bygone days, conscious of this human frailty, enveloped the tooth, and themselves, in a cloak of magical sham, via the medium of a saint, for the convenience of their own selfish ends. Today, with the development of dentistry as an art and science, the remnants of ancient superstitions bear little more than sentimental value. To modern dentistry such a link with the past is retained through Saint Apollonia, the patron saint of the profession.

The story of Saint Apollonia goes back to 248 A.D. when the Romans, disdaining all that was not Roman, sent a poet to Alexandria to incense the people against the followers of Christ. The result of his propaganda manifested itself in bloody riots and brutal plundering which only those victims whose fidelity transcended fear of pain attempted to resist. Among the faithful was Apollonia, a "virgin of advanced age," whose punishment consisted of imprisonment, the crushing of her jaws and removal of all her teeth. She was then led to a pyre in the suburbs of Alexandria and threatened with death in the flames if she did not renounce her religious tenets. Without replying, she cast herself into the fire and died a martyr's death.

Apparently, this is the most widely accepted tale, although there are numerous others. As might be expectd, subsequent versions suffered distortions and alterations so that we find Apollonia described elsewhere as the offspring of ancient kings, a "girl hardly ripe for wedding, in the blossom of her youth," and as the possessor of great beauty. Actually, her parents are unknown, and she was quite advanced in years at the time of her martyrdom.

In similar fashion, the legends of her martyrdom become more elaborate. Thus, we have Saint Apollonia, her tongue cut out, thrown to the lions prior to the destruction of her jaws and teeth. While being tortured, Apollonia prayed to the Lord that all who should suffer from toothache should be eased of their pain on mentioning her name.

In Europe there are numerous statues and relics of Saint Apollonia. The ninth of February is dedicated to her by the Church, and in Bohemia those who fast on that day are supposed to be free from toothache for the ensuing year. Her relics are highly esteemed for the therapeutic value they are reputed to possess. Various cities and churches have ceremonies on her holiday, and in Rome poor girls are given clothes. At one church, a sufferer deposits the spoon with which he usually eats, at the foot of a statue of the saint.

Not only is Saint Apollonia the benefactor of those afflicted with dental discomfort, but she is also the patroness of the practitioners of the dental art and science. This latter relationship was more intimate of course when the practice of dentistry was more magic than science. Today Saint Apollonia holds little more than historical interest for the members of the dental profession.

SOPHOMORES

THE SECOND PLATOON DRILLS

March 10, 1943. Sophomores all, all but fifteen, that is . . . sixty-two strong, well, sixty-two anyway . . . ready, willing, and gassed . . . bring them on: Randolph, Grempler, Deems, Anderson, Warner, Pyott, Wells, and the rest . . . they're not so tough, we hope.

March winds. Summa win(d)s the new class prexy . . . prosthetics and Dr. Pyott, a winsome twosome . . . Wilkins and Levine, a windsome twosome . . . Dr. Aisenberg is still with us, perspicuity personified . . . nothing to this sophomore year, so far.

April showers. The class sours . . . the work begins with a paucity of grins . . . operative dentistry, the hallowed hagiolatry of Dr. Black . . . Dr. Dobbs, his exhortations on pharmacological particulars . . . so long, Dr. Boettiger . . . you're in the army now . . . lots of luck! . . . you're a swell fellow and a grand teacher.

May and June. Now we're humming a different tune . . . who said the sophomore year was a "breeze"? . . . we have a new theme song in prosthetics: "Do It Again!" . . . and that operative technic . . . all we hear is line angles, point angles, straight angles, right angles, acute angles, and obtuse angles . . . thought an angle was a point of view . . . now it's a view of a point . . . rumors say we'll be in the army soon . . . we're all for it!

July is here. And so is the army . . . Fort Meade, here we come! . . . "Yes, sir!" "No, sir!" . . . "Dress right, dress!" . . . K.P. . . . "Shots" in the arm and elsewhere . . . blistered feet . . . we'll never forget those four days . . . back in school again . . . "Dr. Warner, how's this casting?" . . . "Swell, do it again." . . . "Dr. Pyott, look at this beautiful wax-up." . . . "Phenomenal, do it again." . . .the end of the semester . . . no casualties.

August. School closed for three weeks . . . for two weeks, private citizens . . . for the last week, just privates.

Seventeen years ago the Dental School Library began operation as a separate library. Seventeen years of careful purchasing and generous gifts by alumni and friends have made our library one of the most complete collections of dental literature in the country. Funds have been devoted to the maintenance of an up-to-date working collection as well as to the development of a large historical collection, until we now have an outstanding library of ten thousand volumes covering all phases of dentistry. The earliest printed book in our collection is dated 1500; the latest came off the press only last week.

The dental student of seventeen years ago did not have such a library at his disposal, whereas today's student takes for granted a good library as a necessary part of the school's equipment. Here at the Baltimore College of Dental Surgery he has one of the finest and best organized of any in American dental schools. From the time he struggles with anatomy atlases until he completes his senior thesis, the good student is a constant user of the library. Last year use of the Library totaled 18,114 volumes, as compared with 704 volumes in 1927-1928.

The wealth of the Library's resources and a competent staff account for much of this increase in use. A very vital factor, however, has been the growing emphasis of the faculty upon a broader knowledge than that to be obtained from one textbook. Today no student leaves our school without having some comprehension of the extent of dental publications and an introduction to the literature of the history of his profession. There can be no doubt that the Library has an important rôle in the education of the student of the Baltimore College of Dental Surgery.

FORWARD, MARCH

As is true of all incoming juniors, our boys were eager to take that first patient. Even before we received our clinic gowns, most of the juniors had one or more patients waiting. It was rumored for a time that Miss Brady was petitioning for a gendarme to quiet the furore in the waiting-room. In spite of this mad rush on the part of the juniors, however, a quorum could always be found in Mourners' Row.

We're in the Army now! In the first week of July, we became privates, had a taste of camp life for a few days at Fort Meade, and then returned to school enrolled in the Army Student Training Program. We must have been good soldiers, for only one month elapsed before we were raised to the rank of privates first class. What a dash there was to sew on the stripes! And what moans of envy were heard about the school when the Navy Seamen strutted in with Ensign uniforms! For a while it seemed as though the Navy men were becoming fashion models; each week different uniforms were issued. The competition is still mighty keen between our Army and Navy men.

Ushered in with the army changes came the ever lengthening list of those members of the class who ventured forth in matrimony. The benedicts are Abrams, Shapiro, Applegate, Bloom, Craig, Cullen, Gordon, Schadel, Inman, Kellam, Morini, Knowlton, Radler, and Weiner. The rest of us join in congratulating and wishing them health and happiness.

The entire class was deeply grieved by the untimely death of one of our outstanding and most popular classmates, David Shapiro. He was a regular fellow whom everyone liked and considered a friend. His fine sportsmanship and congeniality were notable. Dave was a kind and soft-speaking person. Even at the most trying moments his clever humor won the admiration of those who were near. All Dave's classmates miss him.

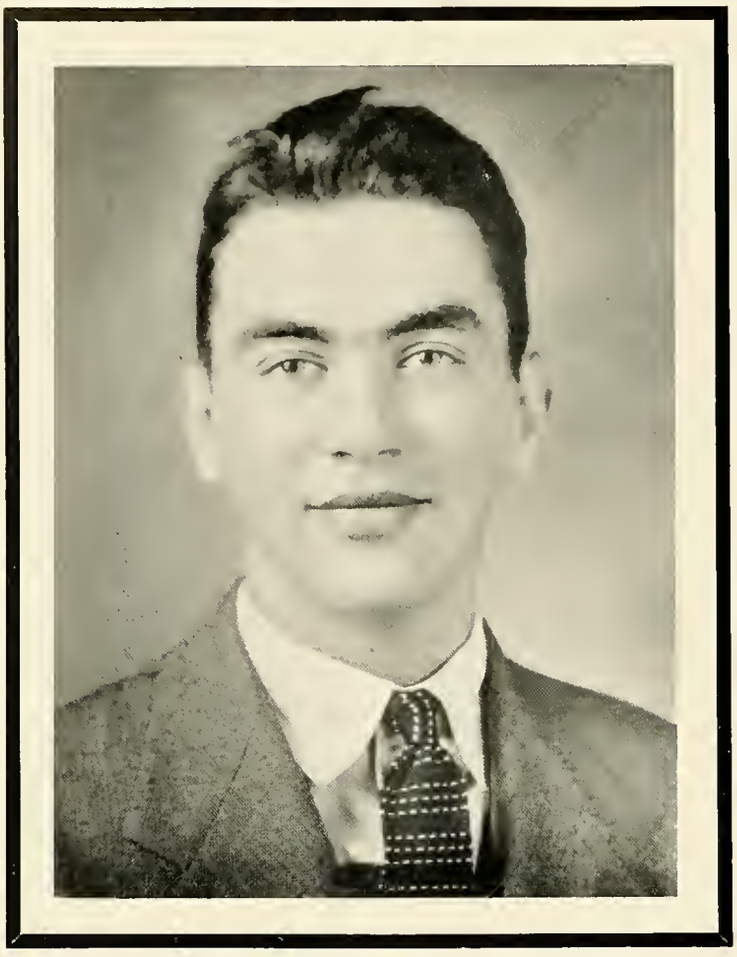
In Memoriam



David Baer Shapiro

David Baer Shapiro was born in Washington, D. C., on September 26, 1921. He was educated in the elementary schools in southeast Washington, and graduated from Eastern High School in June, 1939.

During his senior year in high school, David decided to study Dentistry. To further his aim, he enrolled as a predental student at the University of Maryland, at College Park, in September of 1939. After two years of study he enrolled in the Baltimore College of Dental Surgery in September, 1941.

Here, his friendly manner and jovial outlook on life soon won him a host of friends. He joined the Alpha Omega fraternity in his sophomore year.

David was always eager to try something new. His favorite sport was golf, with ping-pong and billiards running close seconds. He was also a great sports fan.

David successfully negotiated all the pitfalls of the first two years of dental school, and entered his junior year enthusiastically to put to practice his technical skill.

He enlisted in the Army on July 2, 1943, with the rest of his class. On Tuesday, July 13, 1943, he died.

Although David left us early in life, he will live in the hearts of all those who knew him.

SENIORS

KARL F. GREMPLER,
D.D.S., F.A.C.D.
Honorary President

ON PARADE

Seniors at last, we think our worries are over. They aren't. Orthodontic models? What trouble are they? Any senior can make a decent set of models (after the tenth try). Worry about the Dean's paper? My dear fellow, we're educated men. Only freshmen make mistakes in English. Isn't that right, Mr. Foley? Point requirements? Everyone should have a backlog of patients to carry him through the first semester; after that we shall have finished the operative requirements. The few specimens necessary can theoretically be done in a week or so with ease. We are certain to be through by vacation.

Crown and bridge? We'll spend two or three weeks downstairs working on three patients at once, and we'll be through. Prosthetics? That shouldn't be any trouble at all; as seniors, we know the ropes. Senior thesis? We'll have the entire second semester to write a good one.

BUT, those monthly interviews with Dr. McCarthy found us a little worried. The foil patients we had in line just didn't show up, inlay gremlins chewed our wax patterns, marginal ridges broke away from newly placed amalgams, broken appointments took their toll, bridges burned up in soldering. We were no different from our predecessors in that a thousand and one little things, that didn't have to happen, happened to upset our calculated plans. In the last few weeks, the automatic mallets in the clinic sounded like machine-gun fire, Lab E swarmed with seniors curing those last two cases, the Library was full each evening with seniors writing their theses and seniors re-writing their dental history papers.

Even though we worked harder and worried more than ever before, the opinion is that this year has been the most enjoyable of all. The Army and Navy programs, which provided us with tuition, pay, subsistence, and uniforms, were the innovation of the year.

Vacation in August was a much needed break. On furlough, we had the pleasure of traveling for half-fare in uniform and not having people ask us if we were 4-F, draft dodgers, or in the F.B.I.

As the first class to graduate in uniform, the first class to accelerate appreciably, and as dentists who expect to see action in this war, we review with pride the time and effort spent in achieving our purpose. We entered to learn; we go forth to serve.

ORGANIZATIONS

GORGAS ODONTOLOGICAL SOCIETY

Ferdinand James Samuel Gorgas was born in Winchester, Virginia, on July 27, 1834. His early education was received in Pennsylvania, his dental training at the Baltimore College of Dental Surgery from which he was graduated in 1855. Two years later Dickinson College in Carlisle, Pennsylvania, conferred upon him the degree of Master of Arts. In this same year Dr. Gorgas accepted a position on the faculty of the Baltimore College of Dental Surgery as Demonstrator of Mechanical Dentistry. By 1860 he was appointed Professor of Dental Surgery, and in subsequent years he also taught Pathology and Therapeutics.

Dr. Gorgas was a teacher, but he was also a student in the full sense of the word; for it was during the early years of his professorship that he enrolled in the University of Maryland Medical School. He was graduated from that school in 1863 and two years later assumed the Deanship of the Baltimore College of Dental Surgery.

Dr. Gorgas also played a contributory part in the field of dental literature. He wrote the first textbook on Dental Medicine to appear in this country. He edited the American Journal of Surgery, revised and expanded upon Chapin A. Harris' Dental Dictionary and Principles and Practice of Dentistry and put through numerous editions of these textbooks.

When the University of Maryland established a Dental Department in 1882, Dr. Gorgas was named Dean and Professor of Prosthetic Dentistry, Dental Medicine and Therapeutics. He retained this chair until 1910 when sudden illness forced him to relinquish his position.

The Society which bears his name was founded in 1916. At that time its purpose was to encourage those who sought more knowledge, to activate a wider understanding of the problems of dentistry, and to improve the standards of professional relationships. For a short time the Society flourished, but suddenly it became inactive. In 1926 Drs. Walter Oggesen and H. Plaster revised the constitution and made the Society an honorary one. They also designed the key awarded to those accepted by the Society. Not only must the candidate for admission meet the scholastic requirements laid down by the organization, but he must also display superior qualities of character and professional integrity.

DEPARTMENT OF VISUAL EDUCATION

The Department of Visual Education, organized in September, 1940, is maintained for the one purpose of providing visual aids to learning. By means of photography, art, and moulage, dentistry and its related sciences are clearly and graphically illustrated.

Through the use and correlation of visual aid materials, the rate of learning is accelerated and definitely made more interesting. In allied branches of photography and art, the department has furthered the preservation of irreplaceable historic material of interest to the dental profession.

It is the purpose of this department, through careful planning and controlled expansion, to advance the standards of visual education as applied to dentistry.

FEATURES

A conversation with Dr. Kyrle Preis, at the conclusion of the sophomore lectures on Orthodontics, revealed the possibility that the student about to enter the clinic for the first time may be unprepared to meet his patients on a good psychological basis, and so, although we realize that requirements limit the student in the conduct of his clinic practice, we present Dr. Edward J. Ryan's questions.

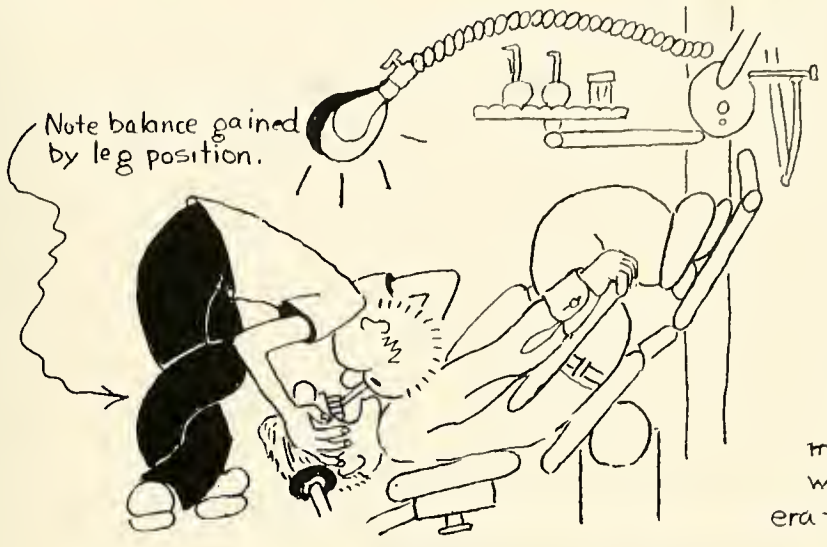
TEST YOUR DENTAL PRACTICE HABITS

1. Do I fail to identify people and to call them by name? Do I excuse myself for not recognizing people with this lament: "I can't remember names, but I remember faces."
2. Am I less precise in my record and bookkeeping systems than I am in my technical procedures?
3. Do I actually use a patient recall system continuously and effectively?
4. Do I frequently suffer from these maladies: Buccal cacosmia? Hircismus?
5. Do I let my patients make their own diagnoses and prescribe their own treatment?
6. Do I engender fear and apprehension among my patients by any of these acts:
   A. Do I sometimes practice the technique of the spear carrier and the bubble blower; that is, am I guilty of holding the hypodermic syringe in front of the patient and expelling bubbles from it?
   B. Am I guilty of thrusting hot, gooey impression materials in the mouth without warning?
   C. Do I leave my patients to drown in their own spittle while I crack jokes or engage in long telephone conversations?
   D. Am I a dental exhibitionist: Do I clatter and rattle and make a great display of extraction and surgical instruments before the patient?
7. Do I sometimes arch my eyebrows and shrug my shoulders when looking at a dental restoration, and comment significantly, "Who did that?"
   Have I forgotten that part of the Oath of Hippocrates which has to do with wagging tongues and scandal-mongering among professional men?
8. Do I ride any of the following topics too hard in chairside conversation?
   a) politics? b) religion? c) personal success? or personal prowess?
   d) personal defeatism? e) boasts about my children?
   f) my own hobbies and interests rather than the patients'?
9. Do I ever practice price-cutting to gain acceptance of my service by a patient?
10. Do I sometimes fail to remember that people having the dental experience have two fears: the fear of price as well as the fear of pain? Do I attempt to impress on patients that Dental Neglect Costs More Than Treatment: In Pain; In Time; and in Money?
11. Do I treat my long-time patients as well as I do "new" patients? Are my examinations and treatment-planning as carefully done for "old" patients as for "new" ones?
12. Am I a psychic dentist who looks at the shape of a patient's head or the cut of his clothes and thereupon practices crystal-gazing to determine what evaluation the patient places on his teeth?
13. Am I always careful to tell each patient what his condition is, what can be done about it, and how much each type of service will cost?
14. Do I examine mouths and arrive at a diagnosis without the use of X-rays? Am I a curb-stone or a pick-and-poke diagnostician?
15. Do I attempt conscientiously to correct medical and health misconceptions?
    Do I live up to my title of "doctor" (teacher)?
    Do I practice, day in and day out, chair-side patient education?
    Have I fallen too far behind in my reading of the dental and related medical literature to attempt to keep abreast with advances made?
16. Do I attempt to practice without a dental assistant? Am I my own bookkeeper, receptionist, office-housekeeper, telephone operator—all these at the same time that I am a technician and a dentist?
17. Do I spend my leisure office time productively?
    Do I sit in the reception room in shirt sleeves, reading a paper and smoking a black cigar?
    Am I a more familiar figure at places of loitering and gambling than at dental meetings, clinics, and study clubs?
18. Am I a shirt-sleeve operator? A saver-of-laundry bills? Do I ever appear before my patients clothed in vulcanite dust, blood stain, and wax speckles?
19. Am I without any appreciation of the value of patients' time, and keep busy men and women waiting in the reception room long after their scheduled appointment?
20. Am I a crying example of dental neglect in the form of clattering full dentures or frank clinical caries or gaping spaces in my mouth?
    Am I my own worst testimonial of good dental care?
21. Do I give the "little woman" the dental attention that she requires?
    Are there any cement fillings in my wife's mouth at this moment?
22. Do I shun the care of child patients? Am I aware that children can refer adults for treatment?
23. Do I listen to the recitation of complaints patiently? Do I try to out-complain my patients? Do I "whistle while I work," or hum, or otherwise show my boredom with the patient and his recitation of his woes? Do I give patients a lift or do I have a depressing effect on them?
24. Do I apply semantics in my practice?
    Do I frighten patients and deprecate the profession with expressions, such as:
    "You need a dummy."
    "I will make you a saddle (a 'skeleton' or a 'synthetic')."
    "You have leaking fillings."
    "I'll just give you 'a prick with the needle' (or a 'whiff of gas' or 'freeze your gums')."
    "Where's my 'bed-bug file' (or 'bayonet' or 'hatchet')?"
    "Well, we'll just 'chop' (or 'cut') this away a bit."
    Do I disconcert patients by failing to make my utterances heard at all?
    Do I startle patients with my shouting?
    In other words, how are my dental manners?
25. Do I believe that in dental practice the professional ideal is the prevention of dental disease and the economic ideal is the prevention of misunderstanding?

Have I been giving to Dentistry as much as I have expected from Dentistry?

REVISED CHAIR POSITIONS

(SEEN ON AND ABOUT THE CLINIC FLOOR- WE WON'T MENTION NAMES)



This position is IDEAL for specimens on all upper teeth, not excluding third molars

The ONLY disadvantage in Revised position no. 1 is that blood rushes to head causing excess hemmorrhage to gingiva when accidentally lacerated.

CHAIR POSITION NO. 1 – UPPERS

NO. 2 - UPPER : MODIFICATION OF POSITION NO. 1

Patient for position no. 2 must be rugged. Anoxia may develop from high altitude.

POSITION NO. 3: MODIFICATION OF POSITION NO. 1 AND NO. 2.

This chair position, has, as yet, not been perfected. A scaffold is hung from the uvula, suspending the operator, thus giving direct access.

CHAIR POSITION NO. 4 - LOWERS

Operator works with utmost comfort in a sitting position on patient's shoulders.

USE OF MOUTH MIRROR IS CONTRAINDICATED IN THESE TECHNIQUES.

By Jean Thomas, The Traipsin' Woman

Not all judges sit in stern judgment upon the prisoner at the bar of justice, nor do they all scowl down on trembling, fearful children who for one reason or another are brought into court. When Judge George C. Bell of the County Court of Boyd County passes sentence upon an offender, even if it chances to be a gray-haired man, so concerned is the judge that the accused shall leave his court room in the right frame of mind, he removes the lid from a glass jar which he always keeps upon the bench, takes out a red-striped stick of candy, and hands it to the accused with the words: "Eat this, my friend, so you will leave with a sweet taste in your mouth." Whether he is of a mind to or not, the sentenced person invariably smiles. It may be a wry smile, slow to spread over a grim face, but it is a smile after a fashion.

Before going on the bench, Judge Bell was a practicing dentist. He made his rounds through the hills, carrying his instruments in a leather bag, until he had earned enough to set up an office. More than once a sufferer from toothache came hurrying down a lane, holding a swollen jaw. "Doc! Doc!" the man would shout, "have you fetched your drawers?" And then and there, by the roadside, Doc Bell would open the leather bag, take out his forceps, and extract a tooth. The patients paid him with whatever they had; a couple of frying chickens, eggs, a pat of butter; sometimes they gave Doc rare treasures: petrified flowers, arrowheads, a tomahawk dug from an Indian mound; once a grateful patient gave him a flint-lock gun.

Through his wanderings in the hills, George C. Bell built up a wide acquaintance, which he maintained after he had successfully established his office. When he announced himself a candidate for county judge, it came as a great surprise—particularly to Democrats, for Judge Bell is the first Republican county judge in more than a quarter of a century in Boyd County—but his friends were numerous enough to elect him. His campaign was as original as the rest of his career. He capitalized on his name: on cutouts in the shape of a bell he had lettered the words:

DR. BELL
THE DENTIST
Republican Candidate for COUNTY JUDGE

These arresting paper bells dangled from thousands of trees all over Boyd County. Doc himself admits he "clanged his clapper till he was hoarse as a frog." He won, and his terms have been distinguished enough, not only to gain him re-election, but to win him invitations to appear on radio programs. He admits that when he faced the microphone for the first time in his life, on "We the People" in New York City, he could not have been more frightened than if he had been before a judge on trial for his life. "Fellows," he told his cronies at the courthouse afterward, "my knees knocked together and my tongue clicked against the roof of my mouth, but no words would come out, 'till Gabriel Heatter smiled at me like an indulgent father. That loosed my tongue." Later he also appeared on the "Hobby Lobby" program.

His decisions are often as unusual as the cases he tries. One I recall was the case of an eleven-year-old haled into court on a delinquency charge.

"Willie," the judge leaned over the bench and asked in a kindly voice. "What made you drive your ma's calf to the county seat and sell it for fifty cents?"

"Judge," the little fellow replied earnestly, "I needed strings for my banjer."

"Let's see your banjer, Willie."

Exhibit number one was produced and admitted as evidence. It was a homemade, hand-made instrument, the frame whittled out of a solid piece of white oak. The judge examined it himself.

"Where'd you get the sounding head, Willie?"

"I ketched me a polecat." Laughter in the court embarrassed the boy and he explained hurriedly: "I tanned his hide myself with lye, and seasoned it a mite with salt."

The judge sniffed and smiled. "A polecat hide it is, Willie, and I think you might have added another pinch of salt. But it is a nice instrument, and naturally you wanted strings for it." He dismissed Willie temporarily, and called a man before him.

"You bought a calf from this lad for fifty cents?"

"I did," the new defendant answered sullenly.

"Were you aware," there was touch of sarcasm now in the judge's voice, "that the boy was a minor?"

The defendant shrugged uneasily. "Lots of kids has calves of their own. Their pa's give 'em to 'em. I've boughten others."

"And did you think fifty cents a fair price?"

Again the man shrugged. "He named it hisself."

"Did you consider it a fair price?"

"I thought mebbe it was kind of a bargain."

"Are you prepared now to pay full value to the boy's mother for her calf?"

"Yes, sir."

The business was transacted then and there, a high price fixed by the judge and paid for the calf, and then the judge called the three parties, mother, son, and dealer, before him.

"Your 'bargain'," he said to the dealer, "has now become a rather expensive one. Let it be a lesson to you not to take advantage of minors. Play a shrewd game, since you must, but play fair." He turned to Willie. "You're not the first person to sell what he never owned, Willie. But you see, such deals never bring a fair price and, besides, they're mighty risky. However, since this one is now satisfactory to both sides, this gentleman" — indicating the dealer—"is going to make you a present of your banjer strings as your commission." He turned to Willie's mother. "If I were you, I'd try to find a way for Willie to earn a bit of cash money in his spare time. A growing boy needs cash—not much, but a little—nowadays." The judge held out the candy jar to each in turn. "Take one," he said, "that you may know the taste of sweet in your life. Case dismissed."

Judge Bell is a deeply religious man, and believes that only a minister of the gospel, regularly ordained and of dignified standing, should perform weddings. The "marryin' parsons" and others with legal power to officiate at weddings took advantage of his self-adopted rule of not performing marriage ceremonies. It came to his attention that when cars with out-of-state licenses parked in the courthouse square and young couples emerged and made their way to the county clerk's office, street urchins lay in wait for their return. As the couple came out of the courthouse the urchins made a bee line for them, and the noisiest and most importunate would be seen leading the couple off to the parson who gave him a commission for each prospective bride and groom he could bring around. It was beyond the judge's jurisdiction to do anything about the "marryin' parsons." But it did not take him long to put a stop to the young runners who were commercializing what the judge considered solely a religious rite.

Another famous decision of the judge's was his punishment of the drunkard. The fellow was compelled to wear a whiskey bottle suspended from his neck by a string, but filled with harmless, and slightly bitrer, tea. Under threat of a sentence at hard labor, he was obliged to drink of the tea whenever anyone looked at him, and he was required to remain in fairly public places. When the period of punishment was over, the man admitted he had been so "plagued" that whiskey had permanently lost its allure.

MOST OF US HOPE THAT ONE DAY WE WILL
-EITHER BE A WORTHY PROFESSOR
- A NOBLE ORAL SURGEON
-OR CUT A FIGURE WITH THE "400"
-PERHAPS BE A SUCCESSFUL ORTHODONTIST
-OR EARN UNDYING FAME BY SOME NEW DISCOVERY
-But are our hopes always realized?
B.S.LAVINE

TO OUR NEXT OF KIN

We, who are about to live, pay tribute to the men responsible for our past four years — by leaving:

To Dr. Randolph—Five students to work in his section.

Capper and Trommer leave their sympathy.

To Drs. Gaver and Liberman—A softball suitable for clinic use.

To Dr. Wooden—One dozen assorted double-end diapers.

To Dr. Nuttall—One asbestos lip protector.

To Dr. Anderson—Our thanks for keeping us informed on military developments.

To Dr. Bernardini—Our frayed sandpaper discs.

Santaniello leaves his echo.

To Dr. Grempler—Mussolini's balcony for his future speeches.

To Dr. Harry Robinson—A rubber finger stall.

To Dr. Inman—A direct pipe line from Dr. McCarthy's office.

To Dr. Sauer—A "Walkie-Talkie."

To Miss Towson—A long, low whistle.

To Dr. Kaufman—We leave Miss Conway.

Bill Martin leaves Dr. Wilkerson—with a sigh of relief.

To Dr. Deems—A tip: Pulphorn to show and Gutta-percha to place in the Class 3 Handicap.

To Dr. Aisenberg—A box of big black cigars.

To Dr. Ide—A promise to do our own lab work.

To Dr. Dobbs—A promise to be gentlemen.

To Dr. Miller—A renewed contract as softball manager.

To Dr. Vanden Bosche—Some ration points for tea.

To Dr. Karn—Some new puzzles.

To Dr. Golton—A Socratic Dialogue.

To Mr. Foley—An honorary membership in the F.B.I.

To Miss Toomey—We leave "the Irish."

To Dr. Dabrowski—A lab technician to take Kossowan's place.

To Dr. Dosh—Our thanks for doing eleven of our twelve crown and bridge units.

To Dr. Ogden—Our will to "fight it."

To Miss Hagan—Orchids.

To Dr. Wells—A dozen candy bars.

To Dr. Williamson—A bicycle.

Kaye leaves his flute to Dr. Scherr so he can lead the children into pedodontia.

To Dr. Tipton—We leave our sterile technique.

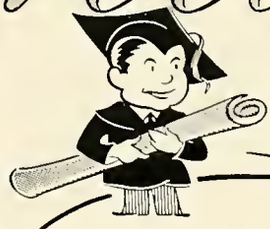
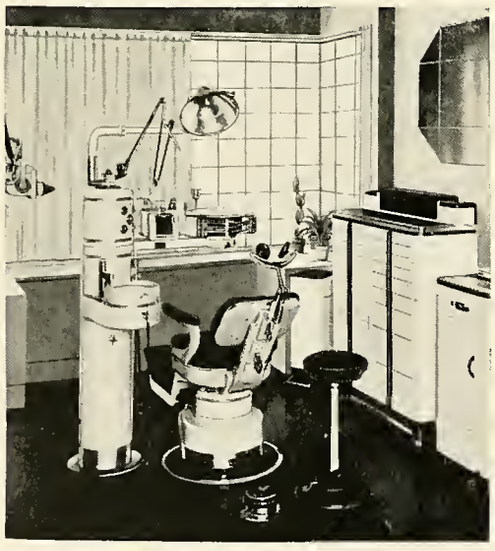
Class of '43

Greetings CLASS OF '43



We welcome this opportunity to congratulate you upon the completion of your college work, and extend sincere wishes for your success. Serving you has been a pleasure, a pleasure which we hope will continue throughout your career.



To those of you who plan to enter military service, may we remind you that S. S. White Equipment and other products will continue to be a part of your daily life. Brushing-up on their operation and techniques now will prove of value later. Always remember S. S. White field representatives, branches and dealers stand ready to assist you.

You who will serve at home in private practice will be confronted with the greatest demand ever placed upon dentistry for the conservation of public health. Here again we can assist, for nothing will do more toward promoting efficiency, extending service, and conserving your health, than a properly designed, well-equipped office.

Let us tell you more about our free location and office planning service

WHEREVER DENTISTRY IS PRACTICED....

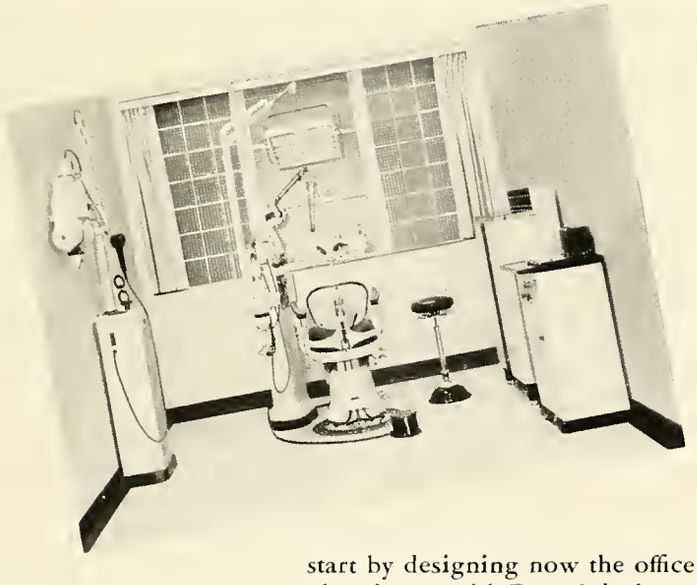
YOU'LL FIND RITTER EQUIPMENT

GIVING MOST IN RUGGED

SERVICE, COMFORT AND

CONVENIENCE....

• Are you headed for Army or Navy? If so, the chances are that you'll do your work with up-to-the-minute Ritter Equipment. Which will prove to you, better than anything we can say, the advantages of fine dental equipment. You'll find Ritter equipment standing up magnificently under history's most severe use test, facilitating the work of the world's finest corps of dentists.



Now is the Time to Plan Your After-the-War Office

• Dental dealers in the community in which you intend to practice are anxious to help you plan now for successful practice after the war. At their service are the facilities of the Ritter Office-Planning Department, which can help you to a running start by designing now the office quarters you want. Victory orders placed now with Dental dealers will give you priority on delivery in the post-war rush for Ritter Equipment. Get acquainted with your Dental dealer. Ritter Company, Inc., Rochester, N. Y.

BY YOUR LEAVE

When we first assumed the task of editing this volume, it was suggested that perhaps the yearbook should not be published in wartime. We felt that, sooner than abandon the MIRROR, we would put out a mere mimeographed pamphlet. However, investigation proved that there was still paper on which to print, there was still a cover to be had, some photographs could still be taken even though flash-bulbs were not available for our amateurs, and no one essential to winning the war would be inconvenienced by the publication. We've had more than our share of difficulties, but we're not complaining, because we have immensely enjoyed this job, in spite of the drain on our energy and hard-pressed time.

THANKS!

Messrs. Paul Love, John Griffin, and Sidney Schultz, for your many swell ideas and helpful suggestions.

Miss Caroline Towson, for your Saint Apollonia that makes our cover.

Members of the Student Activity Council, for buying an excellent camera for our use.

My engineering friend, Alan L. Greenblatt, for giving up your vacation to rewrite and proofread copy.

Drs. Harry McCarthy, Paul Deems, and Edward Dobbs, for your guidance in matters of business and policy.

Mrs. Charlotte Davis and the Misses Elizabeth and Margaret Disney, Beatrice Marriott, Helen Brady, and you other members of the office and library staffs who were always willing to lend a helping hand.

Don Fales, for your splendid support in seeing that this book is "paid for."

Miss Josephine Ezekiel, for your swell photographs.

My staff, the best the MIRROR ever had.
